SIROMER FLAIL COLLECTOR

The Siromer flail mower with a collector is designed for cutting and collecting vegetation in one pass. It consists of a rotating drum with multiple flail blades that chop the vegetation into small pieces. These pieces are then efficiently collected and deposited into a built-in collector, minimizing the need for manual raking or clean-up.

This type of mower is commonly used for maintaining grassy areas, such as parks, golf courses, or large gardens, as it provides the convenience of cutting and collecting the cuttings simultaneously, resulting in a tidy and manicured appearance.
